WORLD LANGUAGE

PROBLEM SOLVED!

“Esperanto”

(WASHINGTON) The international language Esperanto combines the best features of many languages to form a simple yet powerful language. As a second language for everyone, it can improve international understanding.

Ludwig Zamenhof saw fighting between language groups, worked on Esperanto over many years; released it in 1887.

Politically Neutral

(NEW DELHI) Esperanto belongs to everyone, not just to people of a particular nationality. It is acceptable everywhere. Esperanto allows every land to protect its native culture from the incursions of a foreign language. Often called “the international language that works!”

Four Times Easier

(LONDON) Esperanto’s founder, Ludwig Zamenhof, designed it to be easy to learn. You can learn it four times faster than most languages. Its grammar, spelling, and pronunciation are all highly regular, reducing memorization. The vocabulary is related to English, Spanish, German, Italian, so much of it will be immediately recognizable. And a set of reusable suffixes multiplies your vocabulary.

Two Million Speakers

(BRASILIA) About two million people, in over eighty countries, speak Esperanto. Tourists, pen pals, and participants at international conventions use it. Many people sample other cultures through the thousands of books and magazines.
